

A photograph of a modern living room interior. In the foreground, a light-colored wooden coffee table with a simple, clean design sits on a textured, light brown rug. On the table, there is a small, light-colored ceramic vase with greenery, a stack of books, and a single book lying flat. Behind the table, a light-colored sofa with several cushions is visible. The room is bright, with light coming from a window on the left, partially covered by sheer white curtains. The overall aesthetic is minimalist and warm.

INTRODUCTION

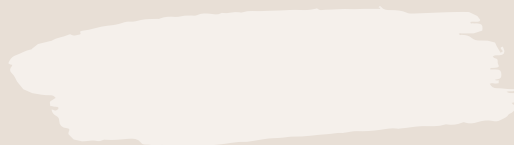

Creating a home means much more than just placing furniture or painting walls—it is a creative process in which spaces gain personality and atmosphere. Colors, materials, and structures play a crucial role in this. They influence how we feel, affect our mood, and turn spaces into places of well-being.

This color and material planner is designed as a practical tool to collect, organize, and implement your ideas with structure. It accompanies you from the first inspiration to the finished design and offers space for notes, sketches, color samples, and planning details.

Whether you want to change a single room, renovate an entire house, or just set certain accents—with clear plans for colors, materials, schedules, and tasks, you always keep track. At the same time, you have the freedom to experiment creatively, test combinations, and gradually create your personal living space.

Let yourself be inspired by this planner; use it as both an idea repository and planning aid—and make your home dreams visible.

Color Planning Guide

FOREWORD

Colors are much more than just a coat of paint on the wall—they are expressions of mood, personality, and a sense of life. Each nuance tells its own story: a gentle beige creates a sense of security, a fresh green brings nature into the home, and a deep blue offers calm and expansiveness. That's exactly why the choice of wall colors deserves a special place in the planning of one's own spaces.

The wall color planner is intended as a creative companion to gather, structure, and consciously implement your ideas. Here you have the opportunity to note down color shades, experiment with combinations, and develop your rooms step by step in terms of color. This way, a spontaneous inspiration transforms into a well-thought-out concept that not only looks aesthetically pleasing but also brings long-term joy.

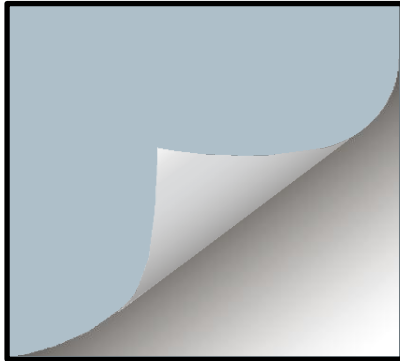

Use the pages of this planner to stick in color samples, jot down your impressions, and sketch visions for each room. It is meant to help you keep track—whether you want to redesign a single room or redecorate an entire home.

Let the colors guide you, trust your instincts, and give yourself the freedom to try out unusual combinations. Because in the end, it's not just about walls—it's about creating living spaces that reflect your personality and where you feel completely comfortable.
